A large and decorative wall map of the Holy Land, based on the Bible and the works of Flavius Josephus, but updated with modern information from Paul de Miglionico, first published by Nolin in 1700.

The map shows the Holy Land divided into the Twelve Tribes and Egypt west to the Nile delta, with the route of the Exodus marked. Down the sides are sixteen panels filled with views and plans of holy sites, with two indented plans of ancient and modern Jerusalem . A hanging drapery contains the title, engraved description and gazetteer.
